

Better Start Married Life With Too Little Than With Too Much

Bride and Groom Find That Mortgage and Necessity For Economy Are Means of Steadying Them in Life.

By HEATHER FAIRFAX.

THE other day a correspondent wrote me a delightful letter. I would like to have several thousand copies mimeographed and give one to every bride of my acquaintance. The original is too long for reproduction in this column and a bit too confidential, but the gist of the letter is that it is better to start marriage with too little than too much.

The woman went on to tell me something of her married life, which has now very nearly reached the quarter century mark. And among Ohio Man Tells How to Gain Strength.

East Liverpool, Ohio.—"After an operation, I was weak, run-down, and slow to recuperate—I was advised to take Vinol, and the results were wonderful. I have a good appetite and sleep fine. I am always glad to tell anyone what Vinol has done for me."

—Joseph Weiser.

There is no secret about Vinol. It gives its success in such cases to beef and cold liver, peptones, iron and manganese phosphates, and glycerophosphates, the oldest and most famous body building and strength creating tonic.

Ten Minute Talks On Teeth

By M. G. FOX, D. D. S.

SYSTEMIC DISEASES CAUSED BY ABSCESSED TEETH AND PYORRHEA ALVEOLARIS.

In previous articles I called attention to the many disastrous consequences attendant on bacterial infection of the blood stream caused by abscessed teeth. It is no longer merely a theory that bad teeth cause ill health. It is established beyond question, and every intelligent physician now asks the patient about the state of his teeth. I have sent to me every year hundreds of persons whose family physicians have instructed them to have their teeth thoroughly examined for infection seats.

Working with the physician, the dentist is almost always able to bring relief to a patient suffering from some disorder, and frequently succeeds in bringing about a complete cure. This is in cases where no immediate tracing of the cause of the disease to bad teeth would be suspected by the layman.

To give the reader the best conception of this phase of the problem, I will cite several cases in my practice.

Miss P. 45 years old, suffering with progressive pernicious anemia of ten years' standing, went to the hospital, where she was under the care of a physician for six months. The disease grew steadily worse until the physician, as a last resource, determined to remove her spleen, which was found to be abscessed. She gained a little in health and left the hospital and the following month was brought to my laboratory with a toothache.

On examination of the mouth I found nine blind abscesses on nine crowned teeth. The crowns were put on in years before. The teeth were removed and the abscesses and diseased bone cured out. A rapid recovery was the result. She went back to her work and after 75 days after removal of the infection. Two years has elapsed and she is gaining steadily.

Mr. N., 35 years old, with rheumatism and rheumatoid of shoulders, arms and neck, with burning sensation in the eyeballs, had to give up his occupation. Examination of the mouth showed two large abscesses, one slight and one small abscess, one unruptured wisdom tooth that was also infected. Removal of all infected areas and curing of bone and abscess brought immediate relief from pain and complete recovery. Three years has elapsed and no recurrence.

Mr. T., 40 years old, developed an abscess on the right side of the neck and shoulder that resisted all treatment by skin specialists. Examination of mouth showed four abscesses and a bad case of pyorrhea. Teeth that could not be saved were removed and pyorrhea treated. In 20 days no recurrence of pain and all eczema gone, with no other treatment given.

Mr. R., 36 years old, employed in an office, eczema of the face from the mouth to the hair line on the forehead, itching in the outer margin of the eye. Eczema resisted treatment by physician, examination of mouth showed severe infection around an unruptured tooth and considerable pyorrhea. Removal of the tooth and curing of pyorrhea resulted in the disappearance of all the symptoms of eczema in 30 days. Two years has elapsed with no recurrence.

And these few cases show the close relationship between infection by abscessed teeth and ill health. The patient has been instructed to call in upon his family physician. The seat of the infection must be discovered.

My next article will deal with pyorrhea and its causes.

AND HE DID

COME RIGHT INTO THE PARLOR MR. GOODE! YOU CAN LEAVE YOUR HAT ON THAT CHAIR!

AND HE DID

My sister and her friends are still pursuing these intellectual phantoms, and of them have become divorced, and the rest are rather an uneasy lot, and as far as prosperity is concerned, we have caught up with them long ago.

In this kind of marriage where genuine responsibility is shared by both of the partners, there is no time for those reactions where the wife becomes convinced that she does not feel toward her husband exactly the way she felt toward her sweetheart, and if there is too much let us think about it, she is apt to conclude that she does not love him and that she has made the mistake of her life in marrying him.

Now that mortgage of $25,000 with which these two young people began life prevented this sort of introspection. They were buying a home, and the big, important thing was their life was to get it paid for, not the thrill producing power of the husband's step on the stairs. And as for the soul mate business, they just couldn't afford such cavities. It was as out of the question as hot-house peaches in January would have been.

My correspondent, however, was not so long as to be forgotten, and they have moved into a far more prosperous home than they could think of the mortgage and those first years with a genuine affection.

Smoking Prunes Cause Of Alarm and Rescue

Portland, Ore., April 15.—It happened this way, Mrs. Portlander, living in one of a block of natty bungalows, had put a pot of prunes on the gas stove to stew, leaving them to simmer while she, after locking up the house, would go on a neighborly call, and as it happened, she forgot the prunes. After a while the prunes stopped simmering and began to smoke—great clouds of it. Finally smoke made its appearance through cracks and crevices of windows and doors, and when noticed created much excitement to neighbors, who immediately turned in every direction.

On arrival of the department one fireman on the shoulders of another smashed his way through a window, and then fought bravely to rescue the pot of prunes.

"Oh, you women," exclaimed the rescuer.

Success Of 'Zitz' Game Depends On Whiskers

Topeka, Kas., April 15.—"Zitz" is the new game here that has developed an alertness on the part of Topekans. It is simple, but expensive.

Two people play the game. They must be together, but can walk any place they please. When a man with whiskers is seen the first one who sees him calls "Zitz" and the other stands the treat.

Mustaches don't count. There are just enough men wearing whiskers to make the game interesting.

Tight Skirts Come As Blessing to Man's Purse

Chicago, Ill., April 15.—The short tight skirts are not so bad after all. There are many good things about them. One is the effect on poor husbands' chronically overworked purses.

It's this way. Fashion decrees shakies for the ankles. Shakies won't do in a cabaret or ballroom. Wife don't go to a cabaret or ballroom with her woman friends if she can't dance. And as it costs money to go to these dances, hubby smiles and buys a new tight dress.
